Cost of Operating Railroads Can be Greatly Reduced, Says Ford

Lighter Cars and Locomotives Built of Better Grade of Steel and Costing Less Than Rolling Stock in Use Today Yet Capable of Moving Freight Much Faster His Plan for D. T. & I.

By ALLAN L. BENSON
Staff Correspondent Internationl News Service.

DETROIT, Dec. 3.—Henry Ford is making a demonstration in efficiency on the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railroad that he believes will revolutionize the railway system of the United States. During the course of an interview he said to me:

"When I bought the D. T. & I. freight cars were moving over it at the rate of fifteen miles a day, counting a day as twenty-four hours. Freight traffic is now moving over the D. T. & I. at the rate of forty five miles a day. When I have finished doing things that are now under way, freight will be moving over our road at the rate of at least 200 miles a day.

"These figures do not mean much until I explain that the movement of freight over American railroads averages only twenty miles to each twenty-four hours. This will seem almost unbelievable to those who see freight trains only when they are going, but it will not be disputed by shippers. Red tape is responsible for a good deal of this slowness. The excessive weight of the freight trains themselves is responsible for some more. The weight of the average freight car is almost equal to the load it carries. Oftentimes the freight in a car is much lighter than the car itself. Imagine what it means to a locomotive to have to draw so much dead weight.

Reduce Weight of Cars

"I am preparing to build freight cars in which the weight will be reduced two-thirds without sacrificing anything in carrying capacity. This can be done by using steel containing alloys ... and can be built as cheaply as the present style of ... something to make better quality of steel but this is offset by the fact that only one third as much steel used. I am also designing a new type of locomotive in which the weight will be reduced one half, yet this locomotive will draw as many loaded freight cars as the present type will draw of heavy ones.

I also expect to reduce by seventy five per cent the amount of coal burned by locomotives. Simply by going over one of our old locomotives and making such changes and improvements as I could short of rebuilding it, I have reduced by fifty per cent the amount of coal it burns. The locomotive now covers the distance

BOARD DENIES IRREGULARITY

The board of education of Camden township has filed its answer to the suit brought by E. C. Lathrop who seeks to restrain the issuing of bonds to the amount of 50,000 to improve the schools, and also to prevent the centralizing of the schools. The board states that all of their proceedings were regular, an election was held and carried in favor of the projects and that they have done everything for the best of the schools and public of Camden and not for their own personal ambitions.

INDICT CHARLES HENNINGS FOR TRANSPORTING LIQUOR

The federal grand jury which has been in session in Cleveland for the past three weeks, completed its duties this morning and reported many indictments covering violations of the liquor laws.

Among those indicted was Charles Hennings of this city, charged with transporting two quarts of liquor on his person on the streets of Elyria.

Mr Hennings was carrying two quarts of gin on Second street when he was confronted by a Federal officer who investigated the package he carried and then placed him under arrest. He was taken to Cleveland and released on bail. He will now have to stand trial.

ARBUCKLE CASE STILL WITH JURY

7 Men and 5 Women Unable to Arrive at a Verdict—"Fatty" Hopes For Acquittal

SAN FRANCISCO Cal Dec 3—The seven men and five women in whose hands rests the fate of Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, resumed their deliberations behind locked doors in the jury room at 10 o'clock today. Refreshed by their night's rest during which they were locked in their hotel rooms, the jurors at once plunged into the discussions which were interrupted last night shortly after 11 o'clock.

A fresh rumor spread with the return to the hall of justice of the jury that they stood nine to three for acquittal instead of 11 to 1 as grape vine communiques had it last night.

There was no verification, of course, for either report.

Arbuckle wearing an overcoat for the first time since the trial started, was on hand before 10 o'clock. He said he slept well last night and felt fine.

He expressed no anxiety over the verdict and said "we'll just have to wait."

Like the rest of the small crowd of spectators which gathered before 10 o'clock Arbuckle had to cool his heels in the corridor until the court room doors were opened.

Clerk of Court Schaefer announced today that the verdict will be opened and read at whatever time it is received. The point was raised by defense attorneys last night that if the jury came in after noon today, the verdict would have to be sealed, until Monday morning.

The law and decisions on the subject were looked into and it was decided today that the verdict may be opened any time Judge Louderback convenes court to receive it regardless of the legal holiday.

FORMER SHERIFF IS ARRESTED FOR CRABBE ACT INFRACTIONS

DAYTON, Dec 3—William C Oldt, former sheriff was found guilty in police court late yesterday of violating the Crabbe act. He was allowed three days in which to file a motion for a new trial.

CHARLES Moore, Oldt's bartender, was likewise found guilty of Crabbe act violation.

MEALS AGAIN ASKS A DELAY

Walter D. Meals, attorney for former service director Timberman, and policemen Plice, Mead, Johnson and Stapleton, of Lorain, indicted for bribery, has again asked for a continuance of their cases.

This morning a letter was received by the prosecutor in which Attorney Meals stated that he is the chairman of the claims committee of the U S Shipping Board and that at present there are important cases pending before the board that are taking his time during this month.

Prosecuting Attorney Webber took the matter of a continuance up with Judge Thompson and it was agreed to postpone the cases until the January term of court. Mr Webber also stated that after this there would be no more continuances with his consent.

TWO ASK THE COURT FOR SEPARATION

Ernest Laccohee, Lorain, has filed suit against Caroline Laccohee asking for a divorce on the ground of three years wilful absence.

A second suit was filed by Louie Frank against Ethel Frank, asking for a divorce on the ground of gross neglect of duty.

Last Man in Kaber Murder Found In Italy

CLEVELAND, Dec 3—Vittorio Pisselli, said to have been the man who killed Daniel F. Kaber, wealthy publisher at his Lakewood home two years ago last June, has been located. Pisselli, the last of those implicated in the plot, according to statements in the hands of the authorities, today, was found living at Ripalimosani, Italy, by Detectives Charles Cavola and Phil Mooney.

Assistant County Prosecutor V. L. Krewson is in Washington today in an effort to secure the assent of the Italian ambassador to the return of Pisselli to Cleveland to stand trial for his part in the killing but whether or not his effort will prove successful is considered doubtful, as under the Italian law, it is customary to try persons charged with capital offenses in Italy even though their crime may have been committed elsewhere.

The apprehension of Pisselli ends a hunt which has lasted for six months, ever since the arrest of Salvatore Cala, now serving a life sentence in the Ohio penitentiary for his part in the death of Kaber, was arrested near Buffalo. Cala, in statements made following his arrest, implicated Pisselli as the actual wielder of the knife which caused Kaber's death.

Kaber was stabbed to death two years ago last summer. The crime remained for a long time an unsolved mystery, but, owing to the willingness of his father, Moses Kaber to spend his money to solve the crime, Mrs. Eva Catherine Kaber, widow of the murdered man, was indicted last spring. Her mother, Mrs Mary Brickel; Mrs. Kaber's daughter, Marian McArdle, Mrs Erminia Colavito, who was said to have attempted to kill Kaber by poison and then hired the gunmen and the two knife wielders.

Mrs Kabr and Cala are now also serving life sentences while Mrs Colavito and Marian McArdle were acquitted. Mrs Mary Brickel, aged and in failing health, will probably never be brought to trial.

Milk Company Meets Monday

The annual meeting of the Ohio Farmer's Co-Operative Milk Co., is to be held on Monday at 10 o'clock in the Rainbow room Hotel Statler, Cleveland. This is expected to be a very large meeting, as notices have been sent out to about 3,500 members in Lorain, Huron, Portage and Medina counties.

At present there is a great deal of dissatisfaction on the part of producers because they cannot get their milk to Cleveland, on account of the milk drivers strike. The strikers destroy the milk and the cans in spite of police protection. As the milk belongs to the producer until it has been delivered to the Belle-Vernon plant, the farmer has suffered considerable loss. Dissatisfaction is also manifest on account of the way that business is managed, and it is likely that the Association will go on the rocks unless conditions are improved, in the opinion of H. W. Ingersoll, the president, who refuses to stand for another election.

CHINA GAINS ANOTHER POINT ON LEASEHOLDS

France England and Japan to "Conditionally" Surrender Chinese Territory

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3—Japan Great Britain and France agreed at today's secret session of the powers to give up "conditionally" their leaseholds in China as follows:

Japan to give up Shantung.

Great Britain to give up Wei-Hei-Wei. France to give up Kwang-Chou-Wan.

The conditions upon which the three powers agreed to give up their holdings in these places were set forth in statements submitted by the leaders of the three delegations.

The initiative was taken by M Viviani of France. He announced that France is willing under conditions to give up Kwang-Chou Wan, and his statement of the French position was said to have been the most complete of any of the powers.

Great Britain followed and the spokesman announced that she was willing to give up Wei-Hei-Wei under conditions outlined.

Then Japan followed by announcing that she was prepared to get out of Kiaochow in Shantung provisionally, but the Japanese made a reservation where Manchuria was concerned.

PRECIOUS PAIR AGAIN IN TOILS

Charles "Windy" Davis and his side kick, Tommy O'Neil, will spend the next two weeks or so in jail as a result of a so-called joke that they pulled off late yesterday.

They grabbed a leather coat that was hanging in front of Robert Chessler's store on W. Broad street and ran away with it. They were observed and the officers began to hunt for them. When the midnight train came in off stepped the precious pair, and they were immediately surrounded by blue coats. "What's the matter with that guy, can't take a joke," said Davis when he was arrested.

This morning the men were tried before Mayor Jones on a petit larceny charge and were fined $10 and costs each and ten days in jail.

Hughes, Balfour, Kato Meet in Conference To Settle Difficulties

NAVAL AND DIPLOMATIC JAPANESE OFFICIALS DIVIDED ON ACCEPTING HUGHES PROPOSALS—POWER EXPECT THEM TO GET INTO LINE

By GEORGE HOLMES
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 3.—Belief that Japan will capitulate on her demand for a naval ratio in excess of that proposed in the Hughes program and that her acceptance of the American terms will be forthcoming by the middle of next week gained rapid headway today as a result of the first formal conference of the "big three"—Hughes, Balfour and Kato.

There were strong indications today that the work of the conference, as regards the naval end at least, is being delayed by strong difficulties among the Japanese themselves.

On Thursday, it was positively stated by one of Japan's highest naval advisers that the Hughes capital ship ratio of 5-5-3 would be "unconditionally" rejected by the delegation.

On Friday, it was asserted with equal force by one of the highest diplomatic members of the delegation that Japan, realizing rejection would mean "moral isolation" would accept the American proposals as laid down ... dence that all is ... among the delegates from Tokio. Reports are current in Japanese circles that there has been a definite split between the naval members of the delegation on the one hand and the diplomatic members on the other. According to these reports the naval experts who have maintained an unbroken front against the American program are lined up behind Baron Kato himself an admiral in the Imperial navy and who came to Washington as minister of marine. The diplomatic members of the mission are supporting Prince Tokugawa, who is known to favor acceptance of the 5-5-3 ratio.

The Japanese newspaper correspondents, of whom there are a

DENIES YANKS NOT RECEIVING A SQUARE DEAL

WASHINGTON Dec 3—First Asst Postmaster Gen'l Work today in referring to a claim by Senator Fletcher Democrat Florida that the department had not been giving a square deal to former soldiers taking postal civil service examinations revealed that for more than six weeks the department had been adding an extra five points to all ex-yanks taking such examinations.

Work refused to make a detailed reply to the charges, but indicated that he considered the policy of the department a sufficient answer.

By this policy, which was inaugurated under an executive order of President Harding, dated last October 14 former soldiers, if they are with the top three taking an examination are given equal consideration with the other two as provided by law.

HUGHES, BALFOUR

great number here voted for acceptance of the Hughes program They have held several meetings, at which this sentiment has been expressed

Whether the differences between the naval and diplomatic sets in the delegation have reached the stage where Tokio has been appealed to for decision or not but the difficulties are so marked as to be plainly apparent here

The opposition from the naval strategists is based ostensibly on the plea of national necessity. They earnestly assure visitors that a ratio of 5-5-3 is utterly incompatible with Japan's national requirements and defense

Behind the plea however the impression is obtained that a trade lurks in the offing that the Hughes program is entirely acceptable to even those violently opposed expressing an agreement can be reached allowing Japan to retain her prized Mutsu or if the United States will agree to dismantle the fortifications of her Pacific bases

In other quarters and among those who followed the course of Japanese diplomacy at Paris the opinion is held that Japan is making a brave show of sacrifices where the Hughes program is concerned in order that she may plead later in the conference that she had made one sacrifice and should not be called upon to make all the concessions that are to be made in the conference

The attitude of the American delegation is strongly against any trading agreements The American delegates point out that the American naval proposal is the most magnanimous that one nation ever made to another and that it deserves acceptance on its merit without being subjected to the dicker and barter of trade

The attitude of the British which have unequivocally in favor of acceptance of the 5-5-3 ratio undoubtedly has had a far-reaching effect in bringing Japan to terms There have been numerous conferences between A J Balfour and Baron Kato for the last week and it can be stated authoritatively that Great Britain has urged the Japanese to curb their naval experts and accept the program

It is not expected that a final decision will be announced before the middle of next week A J Balfour and some of the British aides left Washington today for New York [illegible] until Tuesday. In British quarters it was said today that Balfour would not have [illegible] Washington had there been anything critical in the [illegible]

MY MARRIAGE PROBLEMS

Adele Garrison's New Phase of

Revelations of a Wife

Copyright, 1921, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

What the Wounded Trooper Told.

MY heart was full of warm gratitude toward the awkward boy who had just revealed to me the truth of Dicky's attack on the man named Smith. I extended my hand toward him impulsively, and he grasped it shyly, while an embarrassed brick-red flush spread over his face.

"I don't know how to thank you, Fred, for telling me this," I said sincerely "It means more to me than you think, and it has saved me from sorely misjudging my husband"

"I thought I ought to," he stammered, dropping my hand in an agony of embarrassment as Bess Dean's voice sounded behind us. She had crossed the room from the veranda door without our seeing her, and I wondered how much she had heard of our conversation.

"What a touching tableau" she gibed "Really, Madge, you might be posing as a picture of eternal gratitude Fred must have rendered you some signal service, indeed"

Her voice was gay insouciant, but I surmised that uneasiness lay beneath her patently careful carelessness She evidently had not cared that Fred had heard her misleading statement to me concerning Dicky's attack on Smith, counting on Fred's dumb shyness to keep him from speech on the subject. And she was keen enough to realize that Dicky, in the mood he had been all the evening, would not tell me the truth concerning the reason for his punishment of Smith

Madge Scores.

That I would eventually learn it from Dicky she must have known but I guessed that she was gambling upon that time coming after she had left Cold Spring That she cared no whit for Dicky or his future opinion of her, if she could gratify her vanity and her petty grudge against me by making me furiously jealous of her I was sure I knew, also that she would like nothing better than to have me flame out at her before Dicky in jealous anger But the sight of Fred in close confidential conversation with me had startled her

It was no part of my plan however, to have her guess what I knew or did not know The eternal feminine which lurks, more or less securely leashed in every woman's make up rose and tugged at its bonds demanding that I play with the girl's uneasiness

"That depends upon what one would consider a service" I remarked carelessly "But I have reason to be distinctly grateful to Fred nevertheless"

I looked squarely at her for a tense instant then glanced away quickly. And though she looked back at me as unwinkingly there was an expression which flashed into her eyes before she could control and banish it which told me that I had scored And I was extremely glad of the interruption which came then from the inn proprietor Kronish for I was content to let the silent controversy between us rest just where it was

A Telephone Message.

"The coffee will be ready very soon," he said "Will you drink it when it is ready or wait for the others?"

"We will wait ten minutes," I decided swiftly "Then if they have not come back you may serve those who are here"

"Thank you madame" he said quietly and went back to his tables once more the placid, efficient inn host, as calm as though a short time before he had not been involved in a drama of life and death

"What's the great 'dea?" Bess Dean demanded, with laughing face but eyes narrowing in a peculiar facial trick she has Any one would think you were the mysterious heroine or famous detective or something equally interesting to watch that old fellow I expected to see him hit his head three times on the floor and to crawl out backwards, he was so deferential"

"He's a bit upset by so much excitement," I returned, noncommittally "But let's go over and talk to Pa Cosgrove He looks as if he were marooned on an island"

The shrill of the telephone punctuated my suggestion which had been made to avoid any further conversation with Bess Dean alone And under so tense a strain was every one in the room and on the veranda that every voice ceased and every pair of eyes were on Kronish as he took down the receiver

"Yes This is Kronish's place. No, Col Travers is not here Who? Nobody of them They are all with Col Travers Who? Mrs Graham? The lady who drove the car? Yes, she's here"

He beckoned me to the telephone, and as I walked quickly to it I was conscious of Bess Dean's eyes boring into the back of my head and knew that she would have given much to have been in my place Her curiosity is overweening, her desire to be the centre of things as inordinate

"Mrs Graham? This is Hastings I have news which Col Travers must know at once Crowley recovered consciousness long enough to say that Smith was the man [illegible] struck him down. I think Crowley [illegible] lot more to tell, but he lapsed into unconsciousness again. But they must get after Smith at once Where is Col Travers?"

"Gone to get—" I did not finish the sentence for into the room rushed Col Travers [illegible] and Ted the trooper officer's [illegible] with fury I did not need [illegible] tell me that Smith had managed to escape them.

COST OF OPERATING

between Springfield, Ohio, and Detroit on five tons of coal, whereas it used to consume ten

Think what it would mean to American railroads to cut their coal bills onehalf' A great part of the traffic that each road carries is coal that it burns itself Reduce the coal bill one-half and the cost of railroading is not only made less, but equipment is released that may be used in carrying freight for the public.

Increase Freight Speed

"Can you begin to realize how inefficiently our American railroads are run? Think what it would mean to increase the average speed at which freight is moved from twenty to two hundred miles a day' That means that the freight-carrying capacity of American railroads can be multiplied by ten without increasing equipment and without additional cost American farmers and shippers generally are crying out against high freight rates. If freight is being moved only twenty miles yet the charge is approximately the same as it should be for moving it two hundred miles is it any wonder that freight rates are regarded as high?

"Mr Ford I said 'suppose you were in charge of all the railroads in the United States, could you do with them what you have done and what you propose to do with your own road?"

He winced at the question because of its form to have given an affirmative answer might have seemed to be boasting So I changed the form of the inquiry and put it this way "Could any man of good administrative ability who understood your railway methods could such a man do for American railroads what you have done and hope to do on your own road?"

Could Improve All Roads

Yes he replied "It would be no more difficult to apply my principles to all lines than it is to one I could run them all as easy as I run my own"

What would be the first thing you would do? I asked "If all the railroads in the United States were under your control?"

I would send word to the D T & I gang to extend their principles to all the other lines"

Mr Ford laughed as he said this and then added, "But I do not see the railroads of America being properly run except under government ownership. Pressures are too deeply entrenched and if it were possible to [illegible] them which it is not [illegible] spring up again under [illegible] ownership There are too [illegible] parasites on American railroads people who own stock and [illegible] dividends, yet never do [illegible] work on the railroads No [illegible] should get a cent of railroad [illegible] except those who [illegible] on railroads and earn [illegible] But I believe that under [illegible] ownership American railroads will soon follow my example and cut down weight of their [illegible] two thirds I am not going [illegible] the car building business except for my own road but there [illegible] doubtless be other builders [illegible] will see the advantage of saving two thirds of their steel The [illegible] roads themselves will see it

Talks About Coal

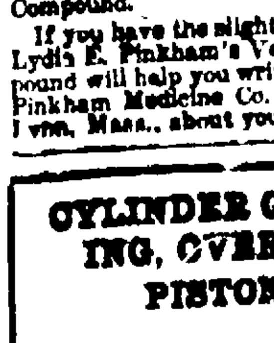

Other railway managers too [illegible] see the desirability of saving [illegible] thirds of the coal that they [illegible] now burning in their locomotives I am even making experiments to see if I cannot burn the coal in the mine and do entirely away with coal-burning locomotives That is Mr Edison's idea I cannot give him enough credit for what he has done for me Coal contains two hundred and eight ingredients All of those ingredients can be obtained by burning the coal if one cares to go to the expense of saving them all. Down at the tractor plant at the Rouge we are burning about one thousand seven hundred tons of coal a day simply to get what is in the coal We are taking out only the benzol, gas coke, ammonia and a few other ingredients Each ton of coal contains a little more than two gallons of benzol There is no better fuel for an internal combustion engine than benzol Here at the plant all of us use benzol in our automobiles It is perfectly feasible to make a benzol-burning locomotive. Such a locomotive can be made to draw any train that any locomotive can draw. I have already made an engine that has done seventy miles an hour on the D T & I. on benzol Each ton of coal contains enough benzol to transport a ton of coal one thousand miles

"As I said, I am experimenting now on burning coal in the mine to see if I cannot do away with coal-burning locomotives altogether If a great body of coal can be set afire and made to burn slowly, that is sufficient The smoke contains everything except the coke and the gas. The gas can be drawn off I should leave the coke in the ground I have heard that there is a mine somewhere in Maryland that has been burning since a time prior to the Civil War."

It has been said that not one woman in a thousand passes this perfectly natural change without experiencing a train of very annoying and sometimes painful symptoms. Those dreadful hot flashes, sinking spells, spots before the eyes, dizzy spells, nervousness, are only a few of the symptoms. Every woman at this age should profit by Mrs. Block's experience and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

GRADUATING CLASS PLAY SHOWS ABILITY AND TRAINING

"All-of-A-Sudden Peggy," by Ernest Denny, was presented by the Mid-year class of the High school last evening in the auditorium of the high school building which was well filled. Under the able coaching of Miss Helen Todd, the dramatic ability of the young amateurs was admirably brought out. Irish wit character parts, and absurd situations which gave an air of sophisticat on furnished entertainment which did not lag.

The setting of the play was an aristocratic home in England. The occupants of the family and Mrs. O'Mara and her daughter, Peggy, who just does things, the ... Colquhoun a gossip, Jack Menzies, a friend of the family, and two men servants are ... The family consists of the eldest son and heir Anthony Lord Crackenthorpe, a unique character party played by Carl Chauncey, his mother, Lady Crackenthorpe, who is very much concerned over her son's possible ... to Miss Peggy O'Mara which would interfere with her plans the Hon. Millicent Keppel the daughter, the second son the Hon. Jimmie Keppel, and Major Archie Phipps Lady Crackenthorpe's brother.

When the play opens, Mrs. O'Mara, the widow of an entomologist, and her daughter, Miss Peggy, are the guests of Lord Crackenthorpe in his country home.

The plot is promptly revealed, Jimmie Keppel is to dazzle Peggy and marry her if necessary to save her from Lord Crackenthorpe. The part of the dazzler was acted by Malcolm Forbes and that of Peggy, who just does things, was acted by Miss Gaston. By her dramatization she made the part distinctive and brought up the spontaneity the chief characteristic of the heroine. Miss Gaston was sufficiently at home on the stage and had a poise which deserves commendation.

Malcolm Forbes, as Jimmie Keppel, made a fine hero who appeared sophisticated enough for the audience, at least, to feel that Miss Peggy was mistaken when she accused him of having been a ... many times before.

Miss Myrtle Haynes, who played the part of Mrs. O'Mara, afforded ... delight by her fine handling of the Irishisms and brogue peculiar to her part.

All the parts were well done. Frank Stevens, as Major Archie Stevens, made his character a distinct personality. Daniel Jones played the part of Jack Menzies with enough strength to balance the part of Lady Crackenthorpe (Marceline Ketchum) who is the type who needs smelling salts and her daughter, a part acted by Miss Margaret Brownell who is a quiet young English girl, properly shocked at Peggy's indescretions. James Worthington was the typhical English butler in uniform and with burnsides and austerity.

A bit of clever acting was done in the second act when Peggy, who is posing to the outside world as the wife of Jimmie, is kept from reading a letter addressed to herself as Mrs. Keppel by tse manservant (Noah Hays) who is protecting the interests of his young master. Miss Ethel Rosa, as Mrs. Colquhoun, the gossip, appeared only once, but held the center of the interest with a rapid conversation well delivered, which was in keeping with the character of her part.

During the intermission the High school orchestra, which has been enlarged considerably this year under the direction of Miss Lorena Thompson, played a number of selections in a way which merited praise.

The Suitcase, Packed For Grandma's

My daughter had strewn all about her
Her doll's clothes, in such bright array;
She was fold'ng, and patting and smoothing.
"What for?" did I hear you say?

I asked, "Dearie, what are you doing?"
Ruth answered me just this way:
"I'm packing my suitcase and dolly,
For Grandma's house, Christmas Day."

And as she kept busily packing,
Full of joy and great eagerness,
She turned and abruptly inquired:
"How long, before its Christmas?"

I hesitated, dreading to tell her;
To me, it seemd quite far away—
And here she was packing her suitcase,
As if it might come any day!

"Mamma, tell me! How many days before?"
I decided to answer the child.
"How many days? Just twenty-four."
Undaunted, she looked and smiled.

"Oh, that's not long, she answered,
Her suitcase she packed just the same,
So when we go home to Grandma,
She's ready to board the train.

If all of our worries could be packed away,
So far in advance, and left there to stay,
We'd all be ready, I'm sure you'll say,
To go to Grandma's, on Christmas Day!

POLITICAL EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT

Lesson 7.

(Mrs. Ruth Fuller Stevens)

1.—What is the basis of the government of Elyria?

Ans.—The local government of the city of Elyria is based upon the Municipal code of the State of Ohio.

2.—What is meant by the "Municipal Code?"

Ans.—The State Code is the body of laws enacted and amended by the Legislature of the state, together with the modifications to the laws which arise from time to time through the judgments and decisions of the courts of the state. The Municipal Code is the body of laws pertaining to the corporation and government of cities and villages.

3.—What are the elective municipal officers provided for by the Municipal Code?

Ans.—They are, Mayor, Councilmen, President of the Council, Treasurer, Solicitor, and Auditor.

What other officers are provided for by the Code?

Ans.—The Mayor is authorized to appoint a Director of Public Service, a Director of Public Safety, and Heads of Departments as they shall be created by vote of the council.

4.—How many councilmen has Elyria?

Ans.—There are seven councilmen in a city of this size. Four of them are elected by the voters of their respective wards and three are elected by the voters of the city at large.

5.—How is the number of councilmen decided?

Ans.—The Municipal Code provides that in cities of a population between 5,000 and 20 000 shall have 7 councilmen as Elyria has, after that 2 members at large shall be added for each 15,000 added inhabitants the limit in the number of councilmen being 32. After the council reaches the number of 15 there shall be one councilman at large for every four by wards.

6.—Is there any special qualification necessary to becoming a councilman?

Ans.—Candidates for the council must be electors of their wards, if they are to be elected by wards, or of the city for at least 1 year preceding election. They must hold no other public office except Notary Public or member of the state militia and they must not be interested in any contract with the city. At any time a councilman ceases to qualify his place is vacated.

7.—How is the salary of the councilman decided?

Ans.—The actual figures are decided upon by council themselves. The Municipal Code providing simply that in a city of less than 25,000 it shall not exceed $150 a year and that in cities of more than 25,000 it may be increased in proportion to the time actually consumed by the work of the members, the amount never to exceed $1200 a year. Deductions may be made for a councilman's failure to attend meetings of the Council.

8.—What in general are the duties of the council?

Ans.—The council hold the legislative power of the municipality. They have no administrative power or power of appointment except within their own body.

9.—Who makes contracts for the city?

Ans.—Contracts are made and entered into by the board or the officers of the council having to do with the matters to which the contract relates, such as the Committee on Sewers and Drains, Parks and Bridges, etc.

10.—After the contracts are made is it the duty of the council to follow them up and see to their being carried out?

Ans.—After the contract is awarded and the appropriation made the Council takes no further action in the matter.

11.—How does an ordinance become a law of the city?

Ans.—Any ordinance which is to be presented to the council for vote, must have a reading on three different days. It is voted upon after the third reading and a majority of the number of councilmen elected constitutes the necessary quorum for voting. If the ordinance is passed by the council it goes to the mayor for his signature, after which it becomes a law of the city.

12.—In case the mayor refuses to sign it may it become a ...

Ans.—If the mayor ... of the action taken by the ... he must return the ordinance signed, with his objections ... same within ten days. If it is not returned within the ten days it becomes effective just as though signed. The council by a vote of 2-3rds of its elected members pass an ordinance over the objection of the mayor.

13.—What other powers has the council?

Ans.—The council creates and discontinues offices and departments of the city government not specially provided for by the Code, as the necessity arises.

14.—How often do the council meet?

Ans.—The council in Elyria have one regular meeting a week on Monday evening in the Council Chamber of the City Building.

15.—Are their meetings open to the public?

Ans.—By provision of the Municipal Code meetings of the City Council are open to the public at all times.

...WILL ...AT AMERICAN STARTING WEDNESDAY

This picture has been called by critics one of the best photoplays of the season. A great emotional play. The picture is greater than the play which ran for years and ranks as one of the most sensational successes of the theater.

John Star Picks Bride From Cast In American Show

A romantic interest not attained before sprung up in the Tom Moore company, making the comedy "Made in Heaven," when the star and Rene Adoree, the little French dancer who was appearing in the role of Moore's sister, announced their engagement. The love note in the picture took on an importance which had hitherto been attributed only to the serious business of getting [illegible] Helen Chadwick, who is playing the leading feminine role, declared that she had a guilty feeling every time Tom had to do a love scene with her.

The romance started in New York on New Year's Eve, when,

at a party given by a film celebrity at Delmonico's, the famous Moore, who was looking for an Irish lass with blue eyes, beheld Rene Adoree—and forgot all about the Irish part of it. She had blue eyes. That was enough! At his invitation she came out to Los Angeles to assume a part in "Made in Heaven." She arrived exactly two weeks after their first meeting. Almost two weeks later to the day the announcement was made. It was a true Irish love affair.

"Made in Heaven" will be shown at the American theater for three days commencing tomorrow.

'THE BRUTE BREAKER' COMES TO DREAMLAND THEATER TOMORROW

Frank Mayo, the vigorous star of "The Brute Breaker" and other big Universal features, will be the principal attraction at the Dreamland theater on Sunday in his newest fast action picture drama, "The Magnificent Brute."

Presented against an awe-inspiring scenic background of the mighty Yosemite, the story deals with Victor Raoul, a fur trapper of the Canadian North who visits the haunts of civilization but once a year. He falls in love with the daughter of his partner, Yvonne, a Parisian bred girl who is strangely out of place in the wilderness and who toys with the big fellow for sheer amusement. How he is accused of murder and escapes in the trackless forest, later to be saved by the girl, is just one of the incidents which leads to the whirlwind climax.

A furious man-hunt, a fight that dwarfs the famous battle of "The Brute Breaker" for action, and a love story that starts with a spark and develops into an inferno, are additional situations which will keep the spectators in doubt as to the story's outcome until the last scene.

'The Bat' Comes to The Rialto Theater, Friday, Dec. 9

Scene from Wagenhals and Kemper Production, "The Bat," by Mary Roberts Rinehart and Avery Hopwood at the Rialto Theater, Friday, December 9th

At the Rialto theater on Friday night, Dec. 9, Wagenhals and Kemper will present, for the first time in this city, their sensational dramatic success "The Bat," by Mary Roberts Rhinehart and Avery Hopwood. Theatergoers have awaited impatiently the coming of this play for more than a year.

With more than a year's run to its credit in New York and a record of a solid year in Chicago by another company in the same attraction, "The Bat" stands out clearly as the one great big success of all years. Moreover, every bit of success that has been its share belongs to it rightfully.

"The Bat" is a dramatic thrill [illegible] have referred to it as a "dramatic smash." The [illegible] a good one. It is exactly that. Not only is it thrilling to the point of keeping its audiences on the edge of their chairs from beginning to end but it is, moreover, actually one of the funniest pays staged in years.

The humor of "The Bat" is more of situations than of mere funny lines. In the development of the story, the authors, than whom there are none more expert, in doing just that sort of thing, have managed to contrive situation after situation that leaves the audience fairly breathless from laughter. Were this to occur in the ordinary play it would not be so remarkable but in a play of the thrilling nature of "The Bat" it is remarkable in the extreme.

"The Bat" is presented by Wagenhals and Kemper, known throughout the country for their success as producers of hits. "The Bat" has been staged with all the uncanny skill of the management and is acted by a company of unusual excellence including: Frank G. Bond, Brandon Evans, Clara Coleman, Fanchon Campbell, Orin Shear, Edward L. Cullen, Valarie, Gordon Eldrid, Ernest E. Pollock and Gordon Standing. Mail orders now being received and filled. Seat sale Thursday, 9 a. m.

Comedy Drama Starts Run at Colonial Tomorrow

Douglas MacLean and Beatrice Burnham in a Scene From the Paramount Picture, "The Home Stretch" A Thomas H Ince Production

Comedies assessing genuine elements of gripping, tingling drama and of delicate sentiment without sacrificing laugh-power are infrequent enough to cause Douglas MacLean's latest Paramount picture, "The Home Stretch," which comes to the Colonial theater Sunday and remains Monday and Tuesday, to stand forth as one of the most original and entertaining offerings of the year.

The story concerns a jockey, a trainer, a race track follower, who at the time the picture opens has risen to the ranks of racehorse owners, and of the difficulties he encounters when he attempts to abandon his gambling habits. Not only is Mr. MacLean afforded ample opportunity to "get over" sparkling comedy situations, but to display his dramatic ability and his skill with "thrillers" as well.

The opening scenes of the story laid on a famous California race track, are notable for tensely dramatic situations, and a thrilling accident, in which Mr. MacLean plays a prominent part. Throughout the remainder of the picture, clever comedy and dramatic suspense are delightfully blended and carried through to an unusual ending.

A positive order has been issued by the interstate commerce commission requiring railroads to put the approximately 16 per cent decrease in hay and grain rates into effect on or before next Dec. 27.

Splendid Bill at Rialto Theater Arranged for Tomorrow's Concert

Those who are fortunate enough to witness tomorrow's Sunday concert at the Rialto theater are sure to see an unusually good bill. Two of the offerings bringing stars of international reputation. One is the appearance of Anita Arliss, well known opera singer and original star of "The Chocolate Soldier," supported by "Her Winter Garden Boys" in a gorgeously staged "International Revue." The other is the appearance of winsome Elsie Williams, one of America's most delightful dramatic comediennes supported by a capable company, presenting the most laughable sketch in vaudeville, entitled, "Who Was to Blame." Others on the bill are Lottie Grouper, just returned from her second triumphal tour of Europe, in a new cycle of original songs, Edward Santo Lawrence, an entertainer of exceptional ability, Al and Angie Knight in a splendid absurdity, with original settings entitled, "After Five Years." A two reel Fox comedy and a one reel News Weekly complete the bill.

JAP LECTURER SPEAKS SUNDAY AT OPEN FORUM

Dr. Toyokichi Iyenaga, a former professor of the University of Chicago and of the University of Tokio, a former Japanese government official in the department of Foreign Affairs, and a graduate of Oberlin college, will present the Japanese problems as they relate to the Washington Conference on limitation of armament, at the Open Forum meeting at the Machinists Hall Sunday afternoon.

Dr. Iyenaga and the Chinese speaker of two weeks ago, Dr. Tehyi Hsieh, have debated several times upon various phases of the Japanese-Chinese difficulties. Dr. Hsieh phrased his remarks with a knowledge that Dr. Iyenaga was to appear later to present the Japanese side of the case. In this way the two addresses can be looked upon as a debate between the representative of China and of the Nipponese power. Dr. Iyenaga was spoken of very highly by Dr. Hsieh, when he was here as being a very able representative of the Chinese government.

Dr. Iyenaga graduated from Oberlin college in 1887, after which he went to John Hopkins university where he received his doctorate degree in Political Science in 1890. Dr. Iyenaga returned to Japan where he became a secretary to the Department of Foreign Affairs in which capacity he remained until 1900, when he became a professorial lecturer in the University of Chicago. In recent years Professor Iyenaga has been director of the East and West News Bureau of New York City, an organization for promoting friendly relations between the United States and Japan.

Dr. Iyenaga is spoken of very highly by the University of Chicago. Concerning him they say, Dr. Iyenaga's success in University extension and in popular lecturing has placed him on the front rank of platform speakers. He is bright, witty, entertaining, and at the same time scholarly and instructive. He is the peer of any man today discussing the problems of the Orient."

Holiday Book Suggestion
A Modest Californian

A Liberal Faith
The Puritan's 'Domestic Gloom'

Whatever hopes China has in the present conference at Washington are largely due to the policy defined by John Hay when secretary of state under Roosevelt. But John Hay, the hymn writer, ought to be known as well as John Hay, the statesman and friend of China. No fatalist was he, praying or singing, "Thy will be done," with tone of limp and fruitless resignation. Rather this phrase of the Lord's Prayer to John Hay expressed a militant philosophy of life. It lifted a standard of fearless action and determined accomplishment. As witness the last stanza:

"Thy will it strengthens weakness,
It bids the strong be just;
No lip to fawn, no hand to beg,
No brow to seek the dust.
Wherever man oppresses man,
Beneath thy liberal sun,
O Lord, be there thine arm made bare,
Thy righteous will be done-"

The criticism, "the teaching of the pulpit today is a generation behind the times" very often comes fom a man whose church going dates back to just thirty years ago.

"The Religion of a Layman," is the title of a recent book (being an interpretation of the sermon on the Mount) by Charles R. Brown, dean of the divinity school of Yale university. Says the Springfield (Mass.) Republican in a review: "There will never be unity in religious belief and practice until the Christian world comes to a more general agreement on the interpretation of the Bible. This interpretation must be literary and historical. The old proof text method of promoting a doctrine must go. Like wise the view of the literalist, for it places too heavy a burden on the intellect of the church."

The newspaper advertisement, "Pastor Wanted— Salary $10,000, by church in Santa Clara Valley, California," interested the Study Window at once, until it appeared that said salary was to be paid "seven thousand in climate, one thousand in fruit, flowers and scenery, and two thousand (and manse) in cash." Why not the whole salary in climate and scenery? Whoever heard before of a Californian setting such a limit to the attraction of his state?

A lot of people who never actually lost their religion will tell you confidentially that they mislaid it a long time ago.

Certain public interpreters of religion set it forth that men of science are quite generally enemies of the faith. Some of them doubtless are materialists pure and simple. But others bear a different witness. "The most important thing in the world is belief in the reality of moral and spiritual value. Because we lost that belief, the war came. If we do not now find a way to regain that belief, then science is of no value." So spoke a distinguished scientist, Prof. Millikan of the University of Chicago, in presenting Madame Curie at the university last summer a gram of radium worth $100,000.

When it is said that the faith for today must be a liberal faith, it is not meant that it may be loose, negative, or reckless of spiritual values. But that it must be a large and hospitable faith. It must emphasize the great certainties of religion, not its presumptions, its side-issues, its useless encumbrances. A liberal faith takes due account of the widening vistas of truth in our day. A liberal faith has love for all God's children; it would not withhold the name Christian from any whom the Master himself would receive and own. Jesus, indeed, is at the center—his truth, his leadership, his redemption. It undertakes to build its confession out of those spiritual realities, and those alone, which to him were of first rank importance.

Puritans to refer to "the sullen gloom of their domestic habits." Get what comfort you can for this theory out of the case of John Winthrop, the Puritan governor of Massachusetts. Twenty years after his marriage we find him writing in the rush of business, the following note to his wife:

"Sweetheart—I was unwillingly hindered from coming to thee nor am I like to see thee before the last day of this week; therefore I shall want a band or two; and cuffs. I pray thee also send me six or seven leaves of tobacco dried and powdered. Have care to thyself this cold weather. The Lord bless and keep thee, my sweet wife, and all our family; and send us a comfortable meeting. So I kiss thee and love thee ever and rest. Thy faithful husband."—John Winthrop.

"If, three hundred years after my death," comments Prof. Sherman in the Atlantic Monthly, "it is proved by documentary evidence that, 20 years married, I still in a familiar note mixed up love and kisses with my ... and tobacco—if this is ..., I say, I shall feel very ... surprised if the historian of ... speaks of the sullen gloom ... domestic habits."

Activities in the Churches

County Churches Raising Funds

A vigorous movement is under way by the executive committee of the Lorain County Church Federation to raise fourteen hundred dollars which is needed to meet the outstanding obligations of the work and pay expenses until the end of the present fiscal year, April 30th.

In addition to subscriptions which have been made by individuals or will be secured from individuals later, quotas ranging from $7 to $130 have been proposed to all the churches.

The plan of the executive committee for raising the budget, as well as the program of activities for the federation for the winter, was strongly endorsed at a well attended meeting of the Lorain County Ministerial Association, held at Elyria last week. The ministerial association is an affiliated part of church federation.

The quotas in full have already been paid or guaranteed from the following churches:

Amherst, Congregational-Methodist.
Brownhelm, Congregational.
Elyria, First Congregational
Elyria, First Methodist.
Elyria, Second Methodist.
Lorain, First Baptist.
Lorain, First Congregational.
Lorain, First English Lutheran.
Oberlin, First Baptist.
Oberlin, United Congregational.

The pastors of a number of other churches, including the following, have pledged themselves to urge the matter before their churches:

Avon, Methodist.
Henrietta, German Methodist.
LaGrange, Baptist.
Lorain, First Methodist.
Lorain, First Presbyterian.
Lorain, United Brethren.
Oberlin, Rust Methodist.

First Baptist Church

O. G. Nichols.
R. E. Neighbour, Pastor

Sunday morning, Dec. 4th, Mr. Neighbour will continue on the theme of "The Joy Life"—the result of the intimate relation of the Vine and the Branches.

These messages have all been both interesting and instructive, both educational and Spiritual, both enlightening and uplifting. The power of God has been manifested, sinners have been faithfully warned, saints have been lovingly rebuked and at the same time, gently and tenderly fed; and when the day of judgment shall come, no one who has had the privilege of these messages will be able to say, "Nobody ever told it to me."

In the evening, the pastor will bring a message on the subject, "Daniel, the Model Young Man."

Every one is given a special invitation to come and worship with us.

Bible school at 9:45 with classes for all. Last Sunday we had three Banner classes, and we are anxious that every class be a Banner class, but that means that we shall have to have all members present. May we count on you?

The Young People's Society meets at six o'clock, and if you have never attended their meetings, you are losing a great deal. Please come with the young people Sunday evenings and share with them the joy of service for the Lord.

9:30 Bible School. The average attendance for November was over 300. Surely we will not let this record be lowered for December, the Christmas month. The school is building up on its merits. East Side Community Services.

O. B. Githens, Pastor.
Garford School Building

The life worth while is the Christian life. All other religions have failed to give such a high value to life as Christianity has given. The man or woman living a consecrated Christian life is nearing the goal which Christ set for men to follow. But what is that consecrated life? That is the subject for discussion at the service tomorrow afternoon.

Come join with us in our period of worship and manifest the spirit of cooperation in the establishment of the new church which is to be fully organized within a short time. Great enthusiasm, resulting from the meeting of Wednesday night, which brought to a head the prevailing sentiment for a church, means that the East Side church enterprise will succeed. Success means a better community spiritually, morally and economically. It will mean an organization with a first-class Sunday school and church system which will be the focus of the community social life.

At 3:00 p. m. the pupils in the beginner, primary and junior departments will meet for Sunday school work under the guidance of Mrs. Vida Githens and Mrs. Silver Day.

At 3:30 p. m. the adults meet for a period of worship in the auditorium. Special music will be given by Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bayloc. Sermon topic is, "The Consecrated Life" which is the second in a series from the Psalms. A cordial invitation is extended to all to unite with us in the services.

The Methodist Episcopal Church.

Edwin Kirby, Pastor.

9:30 a. m. the Sunday school. Here is where we may learn more clearly the Will of God. It is contained in His Word. You will receive a hearty welcome here. And classes are provided for all ages. Watch that young men's class grow.

10:45 a. m., public worship. The House of God is for Spiritual and moral instruction and for Divine Worship. Will you come and worship with us? And also hear the Message of God through the preaching of the Word? The subject is, "Not Your Own." Here is a great truth that needs emphasis at this time. The theme is along the same line as the one of last Sunday morning. So if you heard that you ought to hear this. The great fundamental truth that ought to be taught and believed and practiced is that man does not belong to himself. Nor can man do as he pleases with his life. He may do as he pleases but he can never reach the highest manhood by so doing. Come and hear the Word.

6:00 p. m., Epworth League. Here is a company of Young folks who are worthy the confidence of

Week of Prayer Jan. 1st to 7th

The first week of the new year, January 1 to 7, 1922, has been designated as in past ten years as a Week of Prayer in the churches by the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

The topics of prayer suggested for each day are the same as those proposed by the World's Evangelical Alliance and will be used by Protestant churches throughout the world.

The topics are, Monday—Thanksgiving and Confession; Tuesday—The Church Universal; Wednesday—Nations and Their Leaders; Thursday—Foreign Missions; Friday—Christian Education and the Christian Home; Saturday—Home Missions.

The observance of the Week of Prayer has been adopted by the county church federation as the first feature of an intensive evangelistic campaign culminating at Easter.

the young folks of the community. Join with them and help to make Elyria a good place to live in and perfectly safe for all young people who are endeavoring to live a clean life.

7 p. m. public worship. Subject, "John's Vision of the Rainbow Round the Throne." In this subject are many and important truths. In the vision we see God covenanting with man. Yea, God is here putting Himself under obligations to man. Can that be truth? It is true. If God will do that what ought man to do? Here is a truth that exalts God and lifts man to a place of honor and glory in the thought and mind of God. Let us hear the truth in this matter. If you do it will mean much for the Glory of God and the interests of the Kingdom. Special music at both services. Next Sunday night our subject will be, "The Old Time Religion."

St. Andrews Episcopal Church

Edwin B. Redhead, rector.

The second Sunday in Advent. This Sunday is known as Bible Sunday in the Episcopal church and in the Collect, Epistle and Gospel for the day emphasis is placed on the careful use of the Scriptures as a way and means of preparation for the second coming of Christ.

The service for the day will be Church school at the usual hour followed by Holy Communion and sermon at 10:45. The evening service will be at 7:15. The morning sermon topic is "The Need and Importance of Bible Reading" and in the evening "St. Andrew, our Patron Saint."

The morning sermon will give some reasons why the Word of God should richly dwell in our hearts—other words are richly dwelling therein, but the Word of God should be supreme. In the evening St. Andrews usefulness in the Kingdom of God will be explained and the following of his example urged.

The Anthem in the morning will be "The Earth is the Lords" by Simper, Mr. Gordon Lemm taking the solo part. In the evening Mrs. Florence Anderson will sing as an offertory solo "Thou O Lord art my Protector" by Saint Saens.

The Advent season is a time for much serious thinking about religious subjects and such thinking should be reflected in devout public worship. We had splendid congregations last Sunday—let us aim to have even larger ones this Second Sunday in Lent.

The public are cordially invited.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1921

THERE IS HUMOR IN IT.

Those who are not enjoying the hide and seek game that the governor and members of the tax committee are playing just at the present time have not been following the developments of the tax situation from the governor's standpoint nor from the standpoint of the two branches of the legislature.

The entire time of the committees was devoted in trying to get together last winter. The governor had a special tax committee appointed. They in turn made a report and there was a supreme effort made to unite upon that report. The senate leaders were of the opinion that the case was hopeless but the governor called the committees of each house in joint meeting some weeks ago following adjournment of the legislature and besought the committee if possible to find a common meeting ground.

They gave him little encouragement but each body appointed a committee to jointly confer concerning the project. Now these committeemen want to use this taxation proposition for the purpose of convening the legislature, and they claim that there is a possibilty of passing some distinct legislation.

The governor, in the meantime has changed his mind about wanting a session of the legislature. Some of the senate leaders are very desirous of having it convene for the very reason that the governor doesn't want it.

The governor has shown marked interest, on the surface, to get a taxation program through. They claim now this is his opportunity. His reply is that he wants to be sure that it will go through before he calls them in session. Of course this is impossible.

It is a fine game of politics and if the joint committee agrees upon some program the governor will be forced to either call the legislature or else be charged with bad faith in his apparent effort for a tax program If he refused to call the session he would be charged with sacrificing the financial embarrassment of our cities in order to prevent interference by the senate with his recess appointments.

There are those who cannot watch the maneuvering without smiling.

THE TIME TO KEEP COOL

The strike of the drivers of the milk wagons in Cleveland is still on. Violence and rioting in general has been in order during this strike. The companies have refused to come before the committee of the council and they have refused to recognize the union. The men have committed violence of various kinds and are charged with crimes of serious character.

In view of the fact that the milk distributing companies have been receiving more for distributing the milk than the milk producers have been receiving for producing the milk and getting it to the distributor, the sympathy of the milk producer, and to a large degree the general public, was originally with the strikers.

We suppose that considerable of this sympathy is there still. At the same time we want to call attention to the fact that the public do not sympathize with violence and will not tolerate crime. We are not blind to the fact, and we believe that all people should recognize that some times the attitude of the employer seems to almost drive, and in the minds of the leaders of the wage earners justify them, to violence. But we believe that this apparent justification is simply apparent. It is never real.

It may be a more tedious, and sometimes an almost thankless task, to proceed along the longer and legal route for final redress, but it is the only route along which permanent progress is possible.

As soon as violence is committed the one who commits it transfers his opposition from his employer to the government itself. He becomes a fighter against organized society.

We realize that there are many instances where the law does not seem to be adequate for the protection of rights, but the remedy lies in changing the law and never in the attempt to use the club.

Wise labor leaders are recognizing this and are counseling it. They know that the committing of violence is the very thing that the unfair employer wants them to do, for then the employer knows that the sympathy which has been against him will turn to him and he will be almost certain to win his contest.

I wish for you to make a correction of the article, 'Grafton's Skyscraper.' Instead of it reading 'a hen house,' it should read, 'head house.' It may look like a hen house but not a hen live, like Elyria's skyscraper

If you care to publish them, I can give you some details of this head house 32x20 feet square, 6 floors, solid concrete, seven bins, capacity 30,000 bushels of wheat, 3 receiving legs, on elevators, each carrying 6,000 bushels of wheat an hour, 2 upper scale 2,000 bushels capacity, a wheat cleaner, capacity, 2,000 bushels per hour A car of wheat can be disposed of in less than ten minutes This head house is so constructed that the wheat can be delivered to the ten large grain tanks that stand near it A large conveyor, capable of handling 10,000 bushels of wheat an hour, carry the grain to and from these tanks Six of these tanks hold 100,000 bushels of wheat, while the other four tanks hold 60,000 bushels The tanks are 16 feet in diameter and 100 feet high The head house being 109 feet high The foundation of this building is strong enough to carry a twenty story building It was constructed by the Burrell Engineering Co of Chicago A distance of 15 to 20 miles can be seen from the top of it, the village of Brunswick being plainly visible at a distance of 15 miles

YOUNG PEOPLE TO SELL RED CROSS SEALS

OBERLIN, Dec 3—The young people of the United church under the direction of Rev. L. Lobenstine, at a meeting in the James Brand house, voted to conduct the Christmas seal campaign this year. The sale of seals will begin Monday, Dec 5, and continue to Dec. 25.

This "Cheery Little Seal" needs no introduction since this is the fourteenth annual sale. The Christmas seal has a deep significance, aside from its decorative value. It advertises the tragedy of tuberculosis. The records of last year show that there were 5,971 deaths from tuberculosis in Ohio There have been seven new cases reported and one death in Oberlin, since the beginning of the year.

One cent is the price of each seal The proceeds go to finance a society, which is dedicated to the eradication of the White Plague. Eighty percent of the funds raised are spent locally, and 2 per cent goes to the state organization.

At this time of year you are asking where you can purchase Christmas seals. Through the courtesy of the young people of the United church, ample opportunity will be given you.
